

ADELAIDE CONFIDENTIAL

Hear about it first at advertiser.com.au/confidential

Kyle airs his Rove rage

SOUNDS like someone with a big ego is feeling a little threatened maybe? Broadcaster Kyle Sandilands has fired a warning shot at Rove McManus as the two prepare to go head-to-head on Sydney radio in 2016.

Rove will be at the helm of the breakfast show at Austerlitz's 2DAYFM.

"I'm no fan of Rove... but I was surprised that they decided to go with someone that does scripted, rehearsed humour rather than an off-the-cuff, edgy show," Kyle said at the Australia Commercial Radio Awards at the weekend.

Kyle, who jumped from 2DAY to KIIS last year, added: "(Rove is) the best of a bad bunch, so good luck buddy, you're gonna need it."

RAISING AWARENESS: Andrew Evans, David Elmes, Stephen Sanders, Luke Schapel. (Middle) Melvin Mansell, Craig Robinson, Lord Mayor Martin Haese, Ryan O'Keefe, Darren Phillips, Wade Burns (Front) Shane Farley, Steve Nolis, Charlie Jarman, Andrew Jarman. Picture: Tom Huntley

Good cause to ride out the pain

BLACK AND Gold Lycra and a stray pair of Crows socks made a striking peloton out of Adelaide yesterday.

The socks and familiar face of Andrew Jarman drew adoring old footy fans in Strathalbyn, said his daughter, Charlie, but it didn't stop the road-fit cycling crew of charity supporters from forging on and staying ahead of a very important schedule.

More than a dozen cyclists were farewelled at 7am by Lord Mayor Martin Haese as they set out on day one of Road Raise, a 970km bike ride from Adelaide to Melbourne, raising funds and awareness for CanTeen.

The mayor said he could feel the pain ahead.

"I have done that ride, 25 years ago with cycling-mad mates," he said. "It's a huge endeavour and such a great cause. Good on them."

The six-day journey included a stop at the 151km point in Meningie last night, and after a further 145km, in Kingston SE, tonight.

Tomorrow they ride to Mt Gambier, then on day four to Warrnambool, day five to Geelong, finishing on day six in Melbourne.

Checking in with Confidential, Charlie says the group is "having fun, and we're ahead of time".

She has worked hard to physically prepare for the ride and laughs about her dad Andrew, better known for riding the Triple M airwaves, who relied on his footy days fitness and "just did the mental prep".

"But he is looking good and had plenty of energy for the old Crows supporters rallying around him," she says.

"It was great. That's what this is about, raising people's awareness of the cause. I have family members who are battling cancer so, for me, riding to Melbourne is easy."

The Road Raise group aim to raise a combined $100,000 via CanTeen's first online support project.

The target dollars will fund more than 4000 hours of support for young people affected by cancer.

-Dianne Mattsson

Visit roadraise.com.au for more information and to make a donation

Not such a perfect debut for Chisel

THEY absolutely smashed in during the pre-game entertainment at the NRL Grand Final – but a few more of Cold Chisel's usually rather vocal fans might want to start putting their money where their mouths are.

That's because the band, which was founded in Adelaide in the late seventies, was just pipped at the post this week.

Jimmy Barnes, above, and the boys have released their new studio album The Perfect Crime, and while they had the crowd rocking a week ago, it wasn't quite enough for a debut at the top of the charts.

Cold Chisel had to settle for the second spot, while the eleventh volume of Triple J's Like A Version went straight to No.1. It would have been Chisel's first No.1 debut in 17 years (the last being The Last Wave of Summer).

The two new albums knocked off last week's top album, Parkway Drive's Ire, which went to No.3

MAGICAL MUSIC MEMORIES
INSIDE TOMORROW'S
ADELAIDE CONFIDENTIAL

SA dress to impress Jess

IN TOWN to perform at the Ronald McDonald House Charities Gala ball at the Ent Cent Jessica Mauboy got a lovely surprise on Saturday.

Jess, below, who made an appearance at Westfield West Lakes in the afternoon, was thrilled to see a familiar face in the crowd at the shopping centre, designer Cristina Tridente. She met Jess earlier this year when she won a competition to meet the singer and see her perform at the Australia Day concert at the Sydney Opera House.

Cristina, who presented Jess with a little black dress from her couture+love+madness label, says the singer was rapt with her gift and would love to wear more of her designs.

Adam sad to miss big Day

ADELAIDE'S adopted son Adam Hills can't make it to tomorrow's David Day's Rock of Ages show at Thebbie Theatre, but he's doing his bit to make sure the gig goes off.

Acts such as The Angels, Glenn Shorrock, Russell Morris, John Schumann and Swanee are performing to pay tribute to the late great David "Daisy" Day, who died in May, and raise money for his widow Annette, right with Adam, who has been battling breast cancer, and sons Mitchel and Lachlan.

Adam can't be here because he's been making a Stand Up 2 Cancer special for Britain's Channel 4 and filming a Down Under Road Trip with his Last Leg co-hosts. However, he's encouraging people to get along to the gig. "My favourite Daisy memory was from the day Jimmy Barnes came in to SAFM. Daisy disappeared with Barnes after the interview, returned three hours later, said 'He's a bad man, my brother Barnes', then fell asleep under his desk," Adam laughs.

Tickets are available at ticketmaster.com.au.

Old fox for new TV deal

WILLIAM Shatner is going boldly on to Australian TV screens, signing up as the face of Foxtel's new marketing campaign.

The Star Trek legend filmed the campaign in Sydney for the subscription TV station's broadband bundling offer. It sees him abseil from a helicopter into Foxtel's HQ where he encounters a host of Foxtel stars, including Wallaby Israel Folau; Real Housewives of Melbourne stars; Magda Szubanski, Aussie NBA star Matthew Dellavedova, TV presenter Matt Shirvington and F1 driver Daniel Ricciardo.

"Shatner's trademark charm and cheeky delivery provides us with a perfect platform from which to announce Foxtel Broadband's arrival and to highlight Foxtel's world class content and innovative technology," Foxtel's sales and marketing executive director Ed Smith says.

